

Entrepreneurship

Study in the real world.
Break new ground in the virtual.

SMU graduates are constantly changing the way people live, work and play. Our revolutionary, broad-based and participative pedagogy transforms them into confident individuals prepared to take on the world. SMU graduate Leonard Lin, for example, was part of the team that launched the multiplayer online game Battle Stations, Singapore's first and most popular game on Facebook. To date, their company Tyler Projects has two offices – one in Singapore, the other in New York – and fans across Asia, US, Australia and Canada. At SMU, we encourage all our students to develop and pursue their passions, whatever they may be. Welcome to your future.

THE WORLD IS YOUR CAMPUS.
